2024 is a Leap Year so this Thursday is a Leap Day.

True Story: When I lived in New York I knew a guy born on Feb 29.

He retired when he turned 17.

Discussion Group Thursday @ 10am

Space exploration; is it worth it?

Will we be living "Among the Stars" or will there be other long-term benefits to the technology?

Bequest Request

Peter Murrell would like to remind Members about the Shed's on-going need for revenue and that Members may make donations that are tax deductible as well as including a Bequest Clauses in their wills.

All this information and much more is available on our new Website. www.indroshed.org.au

Don't let your guard down with the above good news, scammers are hard at work to relieve you of your money.

Thank you

A huge THANK YOU to Rodger Rusling for his excellent talk at Wednesday's Member's Meeting. Entertaining and informative, however he has put me off circumnavigating Antarctica in a sail boat. Apparently Rodger has a few more talks ready, perhaps Pieter you could make another for another Member's Meeting.

Travel Plans: Planning a trip overseas?

Check out the Global Travel Risk map below, looks like PNG is off the itinerary for a bit.

And finally for this week...

Back in 1957 an air conditioned lawn mower was considered the bee's knees.

I saw this robo-mower gizmo in Bunnings... It's a $1299 Victa! You stay inside in the A/C.

OK Robin, better get cracking on this one, some say this one is better by half.

Now we return for some regularly scheduled mirth...

I'm giving away a legless parrot for free.
No perches necessary.

I've decided to stop seeking approval from strangers.
Is everyone ok with that?

What do you call a zombie who cooks stir fries?
Dead Man Wok-ing.

I stayed up all night trying to remember if I have insomnia or amnesia.

When I get something stuck in my throat, I dislodge it by drinking a beer.
It's called the Heineken Maneuver.

What do you call an annoying potato?
An irri-tater.

What do you call a reluctant potato?
A hesitater.

I can't believe I forgot to go to the gym today.
That's five years in a row now.

I ran out of food and I had to steal from next door's herb garden.
I'm living on borrowed thyme.

Don't be worried about your smartphone and TV spying on you.
Your vacuum has been gathering dirt for years!

What's it called when you're covered in snot and honey?
The bees' sneeze.

Almost all garden gnomes have red hats.
It's a little-gnome fact.

It's probably not safe for me to be driving right now.
But, hey, bad brakes have never stopped me before.

I got fired because I couldn't make a thousand tubes of glue an hour.
Guess I couldn't handle a fast paste working environment.

There was a guy who recently earned a PhD in palindromes.
His name is Dr. Awkward.

When my wife was in labor, I would tell her jokes to distract her from the pain but she didn't seem amused. It must have been the delivery.

My wife is very excited about going away this weekend so I'm not sure she knows I'm coming with her.

My wife is on a tropical food diet so the house is full of fruit.
It's enough to make a mango crazy.

Behind every husband who thinks he wears the pants is a wife who told him which pants to wear.

My wife yelled from upstairs and asked: "Do you ever get a shooting pain across your body, like someone's got a voodoo doll of you and they're stabbing it?"

I said: "No."

She responded: "How about now?"

I named my pet horse Mayo.

Mayo neighs.

I'm reading a horror story in Braille.

Something bad is going to happen.

I can feel it.
