LET ME TELL YOU ABOUT CECILIA PAYNE.

Cecilia Payne's mother refused to spend money on her college education, so she won a scholarship to Cambridge. Cecilia Payne completed her studies, but Cambridge wouldn't give her a degree because at that time there was not much exposure for women, so she said to heck with that and moved to the United States to work at Harvard.

Cecilia Payne was the first person ever to earn a Ph.D. in astronomy from Radcliffe College, with what Otto Strauve called "the most brilliant Ph.D. thesis ever written in astronomy." Not only did Cecilia Payne discover what the universe is made of, she also discovered what the sun is made of (Henry Norris Russell, a fellow astronomer, is usually given credit for discovering that the sun's composition is different from the Earth's, but he came to his conclusions four years later than Payne—after telling her not to publish).

Cecilia Payne is the reason we know anything about variable stars (stars whose brightness as seen from earth fluctuates). Literally, every other study on variable stars is based on her work. Cecilia Payne was the first woman to promoted to a full professorship from within Harvard. She broking the glass ceiling for women in the Harvard science department and in astronomy, while inspiring entire generations of women to take up science.

Cecilia Payne is a legend and everyone should know of her.

This week's bicycle quiz

Robin reckons you are an Old Fart if you had 1 of these on your bike.
What is it?

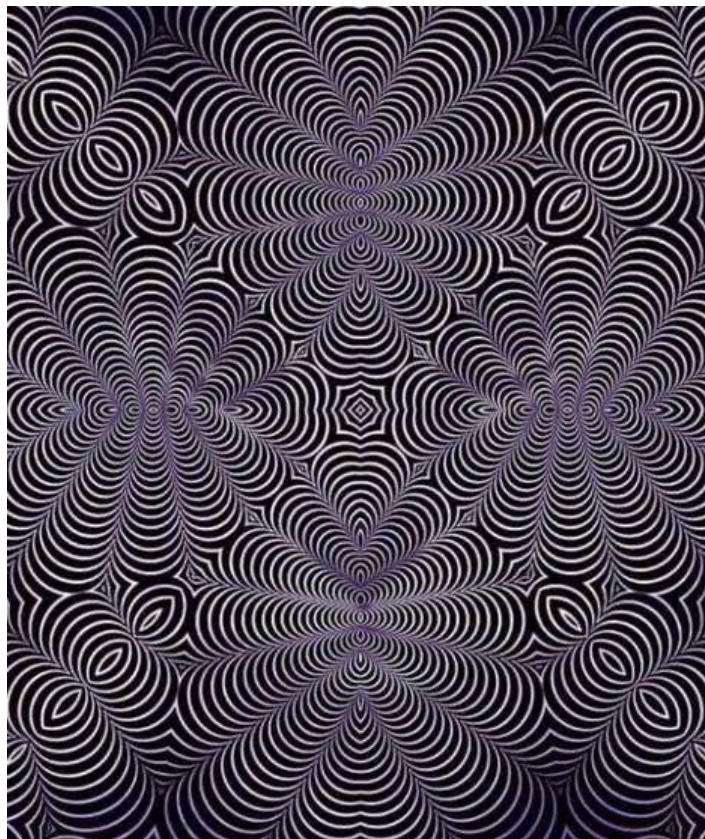

Any of your grandkids will not know

This week's delusional optic

Depending on how your brain works (left brain, right brain) you can see either a cat or a moose in this pattern.

Whatever animal you see isn't an actual part of the image, but just an optical illusion created by your own brain. In fact, if you zoom in, the animal disappears.

“Odd One Out” game from Google

A.I. photos are flooding social media and contributing to an Internet where we can't believe what we see. Google has an interesting game you can play called Odd One Out, where you're presented with 4 images, one of which is AI generated, the other 3 are not fakes.

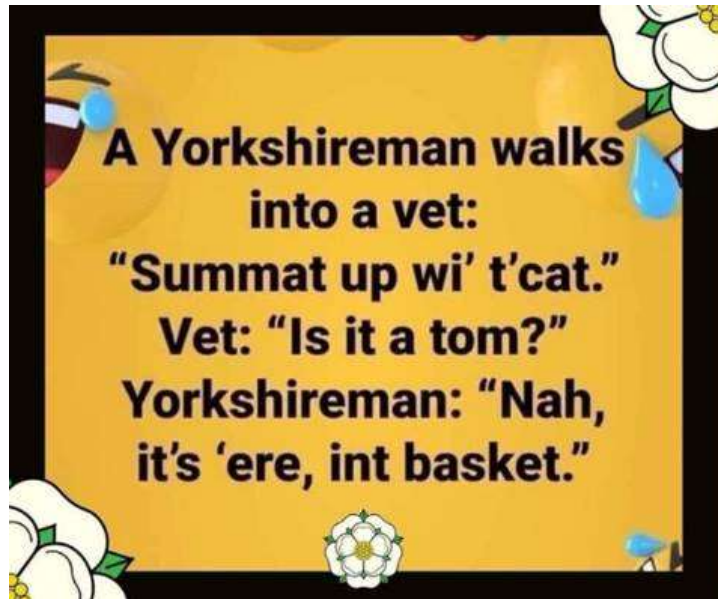

It's scary how hard it is to get right

What's the latest thing you might discover at the Gold Coast?

And finally for this week

Apparently you can reheat pizza by turning your toaster on it's side... you're welcome!

And now for the pun and Dad joke fodder...

When I was young, I was very poor.
After years of struggle, I'm no longer young.

How often do I make chemistry jokes?
Periodically.

My teacher says not to worry about correct spelling because we have autocorrect.
And for that I am infernally grapefruit.

I'm on a plane and the lunch choices are white meat chicken or German sausage.
Unfortunately, I'm seated in the last row.
I'm hoping for the breast, but preparing for the würost.

German sausage jokes are always the würost.

I was at a raucous curry night when some people started throwing poppadum's and a pilau fight ensued.

Someone tried to sell me an invisibility cloak. It was a scam.
I saw right through it.

How do penguins make a decision? Flipper coin.

Lance is an uncommon name nowadays.
But in medieval times people were named Lance a lot.

Got fired from my job as a masseuse.
Apparently I rub people the wrong way.

Then I got fired from my job at the keyboard factory.
They said I wasn't putting in enough shifts.

I called up my landlord and said, "Hey, I gotta leak in my sink."
He said, "Go ahead. I'm not judging."

So Fred Flintstone barged in, shouted "YABBADAB—," then left without further ado.

I told my grandson, "Go to bed, the cows are sleeping in the field."
Puzzled, he asked, "What's that got to do with anything?"
"Well, that means...it's pasture bedtime!"

I'm almost two weeks into my diet and so far I've lost 14 days.

My wife's cellphone service sucks! 8 days ago she said, "We're breaking up," and the call ended.
It's gone straight to voicemail ever since

My wife and I decided we don't want to have kids.
Not sure how we're gonna break the news to them.

You've heard of Murphy's Law, have you heard of Cole's Law?
It's pretty much cabbage, carrot and mayonnaise.
